

Recovering Camera Motion and Scene Structure Using Geometric Algebra

Andrea Dell'Acqua
Milan

The aim of this work is to produce an algorithm for recovering camera motion and scene structure from n-views using line features in each image. The techniques will use conformal Geometric Algebra and it will be shown how this framework is effective both in modelling the problem from a strictly geometric point of view and in developing stable and robust algorithms.